FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents

Say goodbye to the clutter of international shipping documentation, and hello to streamlined electronic international shipping.

What is FedEx Electronic Trade Documents?

FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents is an international shipping solution that allows you to submit your customs documentation electronically so you no longer need to print multiple copies – it's all automated.

Benefits

- Simplifies and enhances the international shipping process
- Increases operational efficiency
- Provides additional peace of mind
- Reduces your carbon footprint

Simplifying and enhancing the international shipping process

FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents automates the flow of your trade documents, and eliminates the need for manual documentation, helping you save time and money.

As an added benefit, you can choose to either electronically submit your own trade documents, or take advantage of FedEx generated documents. The choice is yours. Plus, you have the ability to customise your trade documents by adding your company letterhead and signature image to the documents. FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents is designed to help you save time – so you can get back to what matters most.

Increasing operational efficiency

FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents allows additional operational efficiencies by helping you save paper and reducing your printing costs. Plus, when you submit your documents electronically, you can take advantage of other time-saving features like the ability to create, save and re-use your trade documentation.

The efficiencies don't end there, though. FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents also helps you save money by streamlining the processing time for your international shipments, as well as minimising the labor costs associated with trade documentation.

Providing additional peace of mind

FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents optimises the customs clearance process by allowing for earlier broker review of your trade documents. As a result, you'll be notified quickly about any missing information, or if any additional documentation is needed. You'll also have additional time to resolve any potential shipment issues, thus reducing the risk of caged shipments. So, rest easy and submit your trade documents electronically.

Reducing your carbon footprint

As an added bonus, FedEx® Electronic Trade Documents is a sustainable solution that helps you save paper and reduce your printing costs.
