¹ Parcel Select Lightweight packages with Delivery Confirmation[™] require either Address Service Requested or Return Service Requested. Parcel Select Lightweight packages without Delivery Confirmation do not require ancillary endorsements, but it is highly recommended. Note: FedEx[®] electronic shipping solutions automatically include Delivery Confirmation.

- Any Parcel Select Lightweight package without an ancillary endorsement will be disposed of by the USPS.
- “Carrier - Leave If No Response” is a release that authorizes the USPS to leave the package in an unsecured location, such as a porch or stairway, if it does not fit in the mailbox and the recipient is not available to accept the package. It is separate from and can be used in conjunction with one of the four ancillary endorsements because it only applies to packages that are deliverable as addressed. It must appear in the top endorsement position if used in conjunction with an ancillary endorsement.
- Customers who have coded to a FedEx SmartPost Label Specification and are using the USPS Address Change Service must use Address Service Requested or Change Service Requested (notice for Change Service Requested is $0.28 effective Jan 22, 2012, and is subject to change).
- This information assumes forwarding orders occurred less than 12 months after initial tendering.
