This means, for example, that the performance of an agreement can be both a legal ground and a business purpose for FedEx. Therefore, we will first clarify the legal ground(s) on which FedEx processes your Personal Data and, subsequently, the business purpose(s) that we use your Personal Data for:

Legal Grounds

FedEx processes your Personal Data based on one of the following legal grounds:

Business Purposes

FedEx shall only collect, use or otherwise process Personal Data if the processing falls within the scope of one (or more) of the following legitimate business purposes:

4. Does FedEx process special categories of Personal Data?

FedEx does not process special Personal Data as a core activity in its daily business activities. Special Personal Data means Personal Data concerning a person's religious or philosophical beliefs, race or ethnic origin, political opinions, health and sexual life, biometric data in order to uniquely identify a person, trade union membership, criminal convictions and offences or related security ("Special Personal Data").

FedEx will, however, process your Special Personal Data when it is required by local law. Also, in some cases, the processing of Special Personal Data might happen indirectly (or as an unintended by-product of processing other personal data as explained hereafter) when for example a photo of an employee is processed where racial or ethnic data could be derived from or where health data (e.g. glasses, wheelchair) might be visible. The photo could also show political, religious or philosophical beliefs (e.g. necklace with a cross). According to the law even the processing of the photo where one of the abovementioned examples might be visible, could be considered as processing of Special Personal Data.

Special Personal Data may be collected, used or otherwise processed, including for one (or more) of the purposes specified below:

- (a) Racial or ethnic data (visible through pictures and moving images of an employee). In some countries, photos and video images of employees qualify as data from which racial or ethnic data could be derived from. FedEx may process photos and video images of employees (i) for inclusion in employee directories, (ii) for the protection of FedEx and employee assets, (iii) for site access and security reasons, and (iv) to comply with legal obligations.
- (b) Physical or mental health data (including any opinion of physical or mental health and data relating to disabilities and absence due to illness or pregnancy). FedEx may process physical or mental health data of employees if (i) such processing is required by law or applicable regulations (e.g., pilot health information required by an airline regulatory agency) or (ii) the processing is required and/or permitted by the terms of a collective bargaining agreement to which that employee is subject or to enable the employee to participate in a group health plan.

Medical Data may only be processed by a medical professional who is subject to professional confidentiality requirements for an assessment of the working capacity of an employee and for the provision of health services to an employee. The medical professional may advise FedEx on the employability of employees. FedEx may only process data concerning the employability of employees in the context of:

- (i) Administering pensions, health and welfare plans and schemes, maternity or paternity benefits;
 - (ii) Reintegrating or providing support to employees entitled to benefits with illness or work incapacity;
 - (iii) Providing facilities in the workplace to accommodate health problems or disabilities.
- (c) Criminal data (including data relating to criminal convictions and offences or related security measures) FedEx may process criminal data for protecting the interests of FedEx with respect to criminal offences that have been or, given the relevant circumstances are suspected to be, committed against FedEx or its employees. In case of pre-employment screening and designated party lists screening it may occur that screening could reveal information about criminal convictions and offences or related security measures.
 - (d) Political leanings or religious or philosophical beliefs: FedEx may process data relating to political leanings or religious or philosophical beliefs for accommodating political leanings or religious or philosophical practices, dietary requirements or religious holidays. In case of pre-employment screening and designated party lists screening it may occur that screening could reveal information about political leanings or religious beliefs.
