

Some freight needs its own space

Delicate fabrics. Fragile products. High-value items. Sometimes the less-than-truckload (LTL) freight you're shipping is so important that you want it to be the only thing in the trailer.

When you want your LTL shipment to get all the attention, choose FedEx Freight® volume services Exclusive Use. Your shipment will be the only one in the trailer, which will remain sealed from pickup to delivery.

What's in it for you?

Sometimes you have LTL shipments that are sensitive, extremely valuable, or irreplaceable. Other times, your customer has strict quality expectations, so there's no room for error. Those are the times when you need to give your sensitive shipment a little extra security.

Give your shipment some space

While we always maintain a high level of shipment integrity, we understand that sometimes you want to take that extra step to protect your LTL freight. We can provide a dedicated trailer from start to finish for shipments that:

- Weigh between 4,000 and 44,000 lbs.
- Require 10 ft. up to 56 ft. (two full pup trailers) of space.

What we do

We offer extensive coverage throughout the contiguous U.S. Simply give us the details for your Exclusive Use LTL shipment, and we'll provide a quote. When your freight is loaded, we'll place a seal on the trailer door. You'll know your freight will be untouched until it arrives at its destination. For security purposes, we prohibit access during shipping, eliminating extra handling, split pickups, or split deliveries.*
