

Brokerage-Inclusive Charges

When a shipment is processed as a brokerage-inclusive shipment and FedEx Freight arranges for clearance services, a clearance entry fee is charged to cover processes required to check the Commercial Invoice submitted with the shipment and complete entry preparation procedures required by U.S. Customs and Border Protection, Canada Border Services Agency, including calculation of applicable duties and taxes for each type of commodity included in the shipment. The clearance entry fee is subject to all applicable Canadian taxes. The payor of the transportation charges will be billed for the clearance entry fee, applicable duties and taxes, and any special handling or other customs brokerage charges.
